

Herefordshire Soldiers and 'The Redan Ridge'

The Somme Battle had been launched on 1 July 1916, and the slog through the mud of the Somme Valley against a determined enemy had taken its toll; casualties were high and many units were no longer 'battleworthy'. Immediate reserves had been used up yet there was still a requirement for more manpower.

It was in this scenario that men of The Herefordshire Regiment were transferred to the 11th Battalion<sup>1</sup> of The Border Regiment and fought on the Somme. The 1st Battalion of the Herefordshire Regiment were in Egypt and had been brought up to strength with reinforcements from the 3rd Battalion based in Park Hall Camp Oswestry. The 3rd Battalion was still over strength having held and trained recruits since August 1914, and the surge of Derby Scheme recruits in December 1915 and January 1916 – all of these men were now trained and ready for deployment. In September 1916 some 250 men were identified to reinforce units in France. The men formed a greater contingent with soldiers of The Kings Shropshire Light Infantry (KSLI) and set out for France. From Pte Bumfrey's records he was transferred on 11 October 1916. Others would have been transferred about this time as well. Pte Bumfrey was taken Prisoner of War at Redan Ridge. They sailed from Southampton to Rouen and probably spent several days at the infamous 'Bull Ring' training camp at Etaples before being 'sent up the line' to join the 11th Battalion The Border Regiment.

They would have probably travelled by train, in the wagons known well to the First World War soldiers by the legend stencilled on them '40 hommes/8 cheveux'. The reinforcements moved forwards probably via Amiens to join the 11th Border Regiment who were out of the line. Here they would have been allocated to companies and platoons as required, and undertaken unit training.

In November the Battalion moved back to the Somme; at 0610hrs on 18th they were engaged in action in the Beaumont Hamel area and took part in an attack to capture the high ground of the Redan Ridge; the ridge dominated the lower ground, by capturing it a breakthrough was hoped for. The assault crossed the mud of no-man's land and passed through the German Front Line (Munich Trench) and occupied the German reserve trench (Frankfort Trench), only to find that their flanks were 'open' and the Germans had closed the gap behind them and reoccupied the Munich trench and had encircled them and they were cut off.

It is thought that 7 officers and about 120 soldiers had become isolated, about half of these were from the 11th Border Regiment and almost certainly included some of those transferred from the Herefords. The group sent messengers back to the British lines, but could not evacuate en-masse due to the high number of casualties. They were running short of water, food and ammunition and parties went out to recover these items from bodies lying in no-mans' land. On one occasion a patrol brought in 8 German prisoners. On 2 occasions fighting patrols were sent out from the British lines in an attempt to relieve the isolated force; on both occasions the operation failed. The Germans were becoming increasingly agitated by this pocket of British troops holding out against them and launched several attacks, eventually a 2 battalion assault (1500 men) was launched.

The troops had held out for 8 days with no resupply and enduring increasing hardship and casualties. Eventually on the 25th November, after a vicious assault involving hand to hand fighting with clubs and bayonets, all ammunition having been expended, the troops had no option but to surrender. Only 15 unwounded men emerged from Frankfort Trench to be taken Prisoner of War by the Germans; many wounded also were taken into captivity.

The full story of the British resistance at Redan Ridge was not known until after the war when POWs were released. There were 2 recommendations for (pothumous) Victoria Crosses<sup>3</sup>, but they were not awarded. Sgt Charles Davies (ex Herefordshire Regiment) was taken POW on 18th November, he escaped from captivity in January 1918 and was awarded the Military Medal.

Below are copies of various German and International Committee of The Red Cross (ICRC) documents relating to Pte Bumfrey of Eastnor, and Pte Goodwin of Newent who were both taken Prisoner Of War. Communication through official channels were often slow and 'normal' post could prove quicker, as indicated by the letters from the Carlisle Citizens' League (Carlisle was the 'hometown' of the Border Regt) and correspondence regarding Pte Goodwin..

Ninety two men of the Herefordshire Regiment who transferred to the 11th Border Regiment were Killed in Action or Died of Wounds, on the Somme during the period 18th – 25th November. The impact to Herefordshire was immense, many lost friends and family; many towns and villages suffered a loss.

Below is a role of those men of The Herefordshire Regiment that were transferred to the 11 (Lonsdale) Battalion of the Border Regiment.

It has been compiled from various sources and does not claim to be complete nor authoritative.
